

Nuclear astrophysics at LENA

Abstract: We will briefly summarize recent efforts at the LENA facility for direct measurements of reactions that take place in hydrogen and helium burning. Emphasis will be placed on a detection apparatus that is being developed for studies of extremely weak cross sections.